... gets early-stage and more experienced researchers ready for a successful career in international academia or other organizational contexts.

MuTra COMMUNITY & NETWORK

MuTra was initiated as a project within the Marie Curie Program sponsored by the European Union with partners at Saarland University, University of Copenhagen, Vienna University, Aarhus School of Business, Eötvös Lorand University, Budapest, Fachhochschule Flensburg, Titelbild GmbH, Berlin, and EURICE GmbH.

MuTra has attracted highly committed and successful international partners at leading universities and international organizations as lecturers and instructors, among them colleagues at Innsbruck University (IFTTK) in cooperation with the University of Massachusetts/USA, the University of Surrey/UK as well as from leading broadcasters like ARTE/Strasbourg, ZDF/Berlin and Bavarian Broadcasting/Munich. It is organized by the ATIR at Saarland University in cooperation with the Technical University Timisoara. Trainers are university professors and lecturers, experienced PhD advisors and academic professionals including Bernd Benecke (Bavarian Broadcasting/Munich), Mary Carroll (Titelbild/Berlin), Delia Chiaro (Bologna/Forlì), Andrew Chesterman (Helsinki), Jorge Diaz-Cintas (London), Daniel Gile (Paris) and Ernst-August Gutt (SIL).

CURRICULUM ORGANIZATION

MuTra Advanced Training & PhD School is offered to graduate translators, interpreters, language experts and PhD students in Translation & Interpreting studies as a series of seven seminars organized on several weekends within a period of about one year.

It includes:

ⓑ Basic Seminars in research skills for doing research and PhD preparation (conceptual framing, hypothesis building, research methodology, and the reading & writing of scholarly papers) ⓔ Exchangeable Component Seminars offering training in issues and problem solving strategies within the fields of Audiodescription (AD), Subtitling (HoH) and/or Theater & Musical Translation. Exchangeable seminars may be substituted for proven practical experience in the field.

Ⓢ Supporting Workshops focussing on the interrelationship of theory and practice in T&I

Ⓣ Training for Research Projects: designing, organizing and presenting a research or PhD project

All training components are offered at least once a year and may be taken individually, in conjunction with other seminars or as the MuTra PhD preparatory school (six seminars plus assessment).

Upon request, all seminars can be arranged individually or as a package in house, at universities or companies.
